

Hyder, and his grandchildren Mubarik, Zehra, Murtaza and Gauhar.

Madam Speaker, I ask my colleagues to join me in congratulating this remarkable individual on his 94th birthday and in wishing him and his family continued health and happiness.

HONORING LANA MCCANTS AS A VETERAN AND AS A PART OF BLACK HISTORY MONTH

HON. CHERI BUSTOS

OF ILLINOIS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, February 14, 2020

Mrs. BUSTOS. Madam Speaker, I rise today to recognize Lana McCants for her achievements in the United States Navy for Black History Month. Ms. McCants served from May of 1991 to January of 1997 and earned the rank of Operations Specialist Third Class.

Operations Specialist Third Class McCants trained at the Orlando Naval Training Station and the Virginia Beach Naval Technical Training Facility. She was part of the crew of the USS Acadia, the Point Loma Naval Submarine Station, the USS David R. Ray, and Operation Desert Storm. I commend her for her service and honor her as a part of the Black History Month Program in Rockford called "Capturing American History: The Unique Perspective of the African-American Female Service Member." I would like to thank Lana McCants for her service and recognize her for her experiences as an African American female service-member. She has shown true commitment, leadership and determination throughout her time in the Navy.

It is because of community leaders like Lana that I am especially proud to serve Illinois' 17th Congressional District. Madam Speaker, I would like to again formally honor Lana McCants for her service in the United States Navy.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION

HON. FILEMON VELA

OF TEXAS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, February 14, 2020

Mr. VELA. Madam Speaker, I regrettably missed Roll Call Vote 37 on February 5, 2020. I am a cosponsor of H.R. 2382, USPS Fairness Act, and, had I been present and voting, I would have voted YEA on Roll Call 37.

HONORING ABDULLAH EL-AMIN

HON. RASHIDA TLAIB

OF MICHIGAN

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, February 14, 2020

Ms. TLAIB. Madam Speaker, I rise today to celebrate Imam Abdullah El-Amin's commitment to community service.

Born in Little Rock, Arkansas, Abdullah El-Amin moved to Detroit, Michigan at the age of 7. His interest in the sciences led him to Shaw College, where he earned a Bachelor of Science degree in Biology and Chemistry and worked for twenty years as a medical technologist at various laboratories.

Abdullah El-Amin was called to pursue a more spiritual path. In 1983, Imam Abdullah, along with other members of the community, founded the Muslim Center of Detroit. It was incorporated in 1985. The mosque was formed primarily as a place for worship and as an outreach center to bring people from different religious backgrounds together. Imam Abdullah has always been passionate in his belief that interfaith dialogue creates stronger and more meaningful relationships across cultures.

Imam El-Amin is known for his ability to create connections across communities, and he has served as a delegate for projects internationally. Imam El-Amin also co-founded and served as the Executive Director of the Michigan Muslim Community Council (formerly, the Council of Islamic Organizations of Michigan). His work there allowed him to forge many relationships and friendships with the broader Muslim community. In addition, he founded Crescent Janazah Services after seeing the need for quality end-of-life-care in the Metro-Detroit area, where he fostered the assistance of hundreds, if not thousands of families in their time of need. In addition to his spiritual and charitable work, Imam El-Amin is passionate about civic engagement. He served former mayor Dennis Archer as manager of the Neighborhood City Hall.

Imam El-Amin is foremost a family man. He was married to the love of his life, Dr. Cheryl El-Amin who he misses terribly. They are the parents of three children, Maurice, a high school principal; Zarinah, anthropologist and cultural entrepreneur; and Idris, Doctor of Veterinary Medicine.

Please join me in saluting Imam El-Amin, as we recognize his many contributions to the spiritual and civic life of Detroit.

INTRODUCTION OF THE NATIONAL CHILDREN'S MUSEUM ACT

HON. ELEANOR HOLMES NORTON

OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, February 14, 2020

Ms. NORTON. Madam Speaker, today, I rise to introduce the National Children's Museum Act, which would require the Administrator of the General Services Administration (GSA) to enter into a cooperative agreement with the National Children's Museum (NCM) to allow NCM to remain in the Ronald Reagan Building and International Trade Center, a federally owned building, without charge. My bill would allow the newly redesigned NCM, the nation's first combination children's museum and science center, to remain centrally located in the nation's capital for the benefit of all.

Originally named the Capital Children's Museum, NCM was a staple in the District of Columbia for decades. The institution opened in 1974 in a former convent on H Street Northeast. In 2003, Congress recognized the immense value in having a children's museum in the District and officially designated the museum the National Children's Museum. By 2004, NCM had outgrown its home on H Street, but had difficulty securing a new location. Since 2015 NCM's presence has been digital, serving D.C. public school students and public libraries online.

Now located in its new home in the Ronald Reagan Building at 1300 Pennsylvania Avenue NW, NCM is poised to bring new and innovative STEAM (science, technology, engineering, arts, math) exhibits to the nation's capital, building on more than 30 years of educating D.C. children and families.

Despite its many benefits it brings to the nation's capital, NCM remains an outlier in terms of upkeep and maintenance. NCM is the only congressionally designated museum expected to pay rent in a federal building. This bill would allow NCM to remain in its current federal location without payment of rent, allowing staff to focus on bringing 21st century STEAM learning techniques to the nation's capital.

I strongly urge my colleagues to support this bill.

HONORING THE LEGACY OF LOIS WARREN

HON. RASHIDA TLAIB

OF MICHIGAN

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, February 14, 2020

Ms. TLAIB. Madam Speaker, I rise today in honor of the memory of Lois Warren, a Detroit native, for her legacy of tenacity and spirit.

Ms. Warren valued hard work and it was evident in her everyday life. She earned a Bachelor's Degree in English and Social Work, a Master's Degree in Psychology and Social Work, and was among the first African-American women to earn a Juris Doctorate from the University of Detroit Mercy. Ms. Warren enjoyed a wide-ranging career that included leadership roles as head of the Psychiatric Social Work Department of the former Herman Keifer Hospital in Detroit, and Executive Director of the Intake Division of the Michigan Department of Civil Rights.

More importantly, Ms. Warren was an advocate for civil rights and the visually impaired. Ms. Warren's own daughter, who lives with visual impairment, was the inspiration behind her relentless advocacy. She also played a key role in the wider distribution of large-print materials, such as menus, and for improved visual markers on large glass doors. Furthermore, she fought against women's wage inequities in her daily work, calling out unfair pay for work performed.

Please join me in recognizing the outstanding contributions of Lois Warren, a truly exemplary person.
